Journal of Statistics & Management Systems

VOLUME 11 NUMBER 1 JANUARY 2008 ISSN 0972-0510

CONTENTS

P. N. POSCH : A survey on sequences and distribution functions satisfying the first-digit-law	1–19
K. J. CHUNG AND S. D. LIN : A note on the deterministic inventory models with shortage and defective items derived without derivatives	21–27
K. J. CHUNG AND S. D. LIN : The comparisons between the economic lot quantity with backorders derived algebraically and analytically	29–35
S. C. HUANG : Combining wavelet-based feature extractions with SVMs for financial time series forecasting	37–48
J. S. LIN, S. W. TIEN AND C. H. HSU : The adoption of six sigma methodology to close learning-doing gap	49–64
R. GUPTA, P. K. SHARMA AND V. SHARMA : An operating orbit system with two dissimilar units and corresponding standbys	65–76
R. GUPTA, M. MAHI AND V. SHARMA : A two component two unit standby system with correlated failure and repair times	77–90
P. CHARNSETHIKUL : Solving $(n \times n)$ linear equations with parameters correlation by a first order approximation approach	91–104
M. B. YIN, J. H. LIN AND H. C. WU : Governance mechanisms and bank interest margins: an examination of loan commitment with external financing	105–129
C. S. TSOU, K. J. CHUNG, C. H. HSU AND S. H. LEE : Multi-objective analysis of the inventory planning problem using particle swarm optimization	131–140
C. H. CHEN : The determination of economic production run length and manufacturing target by considering quality loss function	141–157
C. H. CHEN : Optimum production run length and warranty period setting for the imperfect production system	159–167
Y. H. WANG, C. T. LIN AND S. C. LIU : Stock recommendation and market reaction: the empirical analysis in Taiwan	169–181
P. F. HSU AND Z. W. LIN : Outsourcing models based on AHP and sensitive analysis for advanced health examination centers	183–200
